RECALLING WAR-TIMES.

Some More Interesting Matters about the Historic City.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 28.—The longer I remain in Richmond and the more I see of the city the more thoroughly convinced I am of her prosperity. A drive this evening through the western portion was a revelation of the growth that has no doubt surpassed the expectations of even the most sanguine. In fact it was hard to believe my own eyes, when I looked upon imposing structures, counter another, on the ground where two years ago I saw the country boy while away the hours at play and the raw-boned milk cow gaily her appetite with the green grass that grew luxuriantly in the fertile fields around. What was then a true picture of "country suburban life" is now transformed to one of equal truthfulness, representing elegance and ease in the most fashionable part of the city.

It is elegance to say the least of it, if the houses go toward making it. I know of no city that can boast of such buildings as are found in this addition, and if you will pardon the backneyed expression, some of them are "out of sight." For a single instance, the Winter mansion, occupying an entire block and built to a great extent, of brown stone. It is after the Queen Anne order and built without the stint of money and is a residence that no visitor to this grand old city should leave without seeing. It is occupied by Mr. Ginter, a bachelor of some 40 summers, and who is looked upon with envious eyes by many a Richmond belle, but strange to say, he needs them not.

The boom in that part of the city has of course enhanced the value of real estate many fold and the consequence is many owners of West End property, have increased their bank accounts until they present a very decent appearance. The building, too, that has been carried on so extensively has been a great help to the various mechanics, and many have risen from day laborers to contractors, who grow in reputation as the city grows in importance and population.

Although built on as many hills as the ancient city of Rome, Richmond has the finest street car service of any city in my knowledge. The old-fashioned horse car and the modern electrica traverse the city from "dent to dent" and he who walks does it either from a pecuniary motive or for exercise. Her electric light system also surpasses any I know of and Richmond is really not much darker at night than day.

The tobacco exchange here is a busy place and one is reminded of the great Wall Street Stock Exchange in New York. The time that dealers don't act silly and lose their heads as frequently as the "Wall Streeters," but they do a wonderful amount of business and frequently a day brings fortune to some and makes bankrupts of others. It is a sort of catch-as-catch-can business and the buyers and sellers watch their interests as the hawk does his prey.

The little stone house where Washington had his headquarters during war times is still standing and is in a good state of preservation. The Virginians look on it with pardonable pride and treasure the little two-story building above "jewels and precious stones." It is the oldest house in Richmond and possibly has as much history attached to it as any other, save perhaps old Libby prison, which stood here until a couple of years ago, when it was removed to Chicago. By the way, the old building, which was put up as near as possible like it stood here, is a drawing card at the museum in which it was placed and it is said that the Yankee who planned the enterprise is making money hand over fist with it.

Libby prison, it will be remembered, is where the Confederates stowed away many of the Yankee prisoners. A great attempt was made to fire the Northern heart by charging that the men were forced to undergo horrors almost as bad as those who were thrown into the Black Hole at Calcutta, but from all I can gather from the old citizens here, the prisoners were treated as humanely as the exigencies of war and the limited resources of the Confederacy admitted.

Jeff Davis' mansion, the White House of the Confederacy is standing and is another historic building. It is used as a public school now, but since Mr. Davis' death the city has bought it and after the present lease expires it will be turned into a Confederate museum. A little more fitting, to say the least of it.

I have been through Hollywood Cemetery since my arrival and it is not hard to see that the city of the dead is growing with something like the rapidity of its living sister. A number of prominent persons have been laid to rest in the last two years and while the death rate has not been unusually large, there are enough new graves to show that the dread monster has entered many a household and as usual plucked the brightest flower. This cemetery is one of the largest in the country and there are many fine and costly monuments that mark the last resting places of the honored dead. Among the noted men buried is Laura Monroe, whose body was removed from New York, where it had remained for years, and it was brought to Hollywood by order of the General Assembly. Some 15,000 Confederates are also buried there and a monument was erected by the Ladies of the South to their memory. While marking the graves of the dead soldiers it will stand for years to come as a memorial to the good ladies who were thoughtful enough and had sufficient love for those who tried to stand up for the rights of their country to take the steps towards this most commendable enterprise.

The topic of conversation here is John L. Sullivan, the pugilist. That "slugger" was here a week or so ago and as usual made a fool of himself. This time he lunched at a table across the dining-room of his hotel at a waiter, who was rather liberal with his attentions to him, and besides breaking a dozen or more plates and dishes, created a general furor. The Virginian, like the Kentuckian, doesn't like to be run over by anybody and as the bulldozer played his game more than once during his stay, there might be a possibility of a combine against him were he to again hold the boards here.

M. G. Fields' ministers gave a fine show to a crowded house Tuesday night and the papers and the public generally are profuse in their praises of him. He has "spread out" a little since he used to play Stanford and besides other additions, he now travels in a fine Pullman private car. His many friends in Kentucky and around Stanford particularly will be glad to know that he is having a financially successful season and has already laid up a snug little sum.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—The Woolly Bros., of Chicago, will hold a musical convention at the Presbyterian church in this place, commencing next Friday evening and lasting five days.

—Our friend J. T. Palmer has resigned his position with the Hodge Fence Co., and has accepted the agency for the McCormick harvesting and mowing machines. Success to you, Tom!

—Sunday afternoon Jim Anderson—better known as Jim "Wiggle"—proceeded to hold "bottle row" up by the tail. Marshal Hamilton promptly escorted "Wiggle" to jail. He will be tried to-day.

—Our efficient police judge, J. C. Hemphill, is confined to his bed with a severe attack of rheumatism. We hope to see him out in a few days. During his illness Col. L. F. Hubble is acting as police judge.

—"No more shaving on Sunday." Thus reads a sign hung out at our barber shops. It seems that Col. Will King and Maj. Henry Bineau couldn't do their courting during week days and then have time on Sunday to give a man a nice clean shave before he goes to church.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. T. McRoberts have returned to their home in Louisville. R. Graham Frank, now of your city, visited his parents Sunday. Miss Lizzie Wherritt of Richmond, is visiting her niece, Mrs. John E. Stormes. W. B. Marrs was here Sunday. Hon. J. H. Brown and family have removed to the property on Danville street recently vacated by W. M. Totten.

—The action of the democrats of Rockcastle county in regard to the resolutions passed at the meeting of the democracy held at the court-house in Lancaster last week, has called forth from Judge Owsley and others the following letter:

LANCASTER Ky., Feb. 28.—The people of Garrard county regret that the people of Rockcastle county have misconstrued the language used in the resolutions adopted by a late meeting of citizens of this county. There was no intention to insult or degrade Rockcastle county. It was simply a protest against annexing us to a county and people with whom we had but little dealings and toward a connection which made us after years of toil a republican district. We are sorry that our intentions were misunderstood and misunderstood. No reflection was designed personally or otherwise on the county of Rockcastle. We hope there will be no ill will between us.

J. H. BROWN, M. H. OWSELEY, M. D. HUGHES.

Looking over an old scrap book these lines by an excellent lady were found, and which can be appropriately addressed TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

"Tis said by Pundits wise
That difficulties to the great,
Are but stepping stones unto success;
Their noble minds delight
To battle with impending force,
And conquer where the weak do yield.
And so, we do opine, our people thought,
When you they did appoint,
The arduous task of constitution-makers,
Full well they knew the 'tricks of trade,'
The excuses to be 'put off,' the promises fair,
With no intention to fulfill,
That empty heads and deaf ears
Would wonderfully prevail and then, in view
Of the trouble, the perplexity,
The laborations many, that would
Rest your path, they judged
You were just the men to crown
Their wishes with success.
And now, expectant and admiring eyes
Are turned on you to see the least

Accomplished.
Is into the people's master
Dime important, and they will rest
A thousand thanks are yours,
When you exclaim, "Tis done!"
There's your Constitution!"

The electoral college to be chosen in 1892 will consist of 444 members, instead of 401, as in the last election, and 223 votes will be required to make a majority instead of 201. New York has no more votes in the larger electoral colleges than she had in the ones which were chosen in 1888 and 1884 and consequently loses her importance to that extent.

The vote in 1892 will be as follows:

Alabama	11	Nebraska	8
Arkansas	8	Nevada	3
California	9	New Hampshire	4
Colorado	4	New Jersey	10
Connecticut	6	New York	36
Delaware	3	North Carolina	11
Florida	4	North Dakota	3
Georgia	13	Ohio	23
Idaho	3	Oregon	4
Illinois	24	Pennsylvania	32
Indiana	15	Rhode Island	4
Iowa	13	South Carolina	9
Kansas	10	South Dakota	4
Kentucky	13	Tennessee	12
Louisiana	9	Texas	15
Maine	6	Vermont	4
Maryland	8	Virginia	12
Massachusetts	15	Washington	4
Michigan	14	West Virginia	6
Minnesota	9	Wisconsin	12
Mississippi	9	Wyoming	3
Missouri	17	Total	444
Montana	3

The first House of Representatives in the Congress of the United States consisted of only 65 members. The present House consists of 332 members. The admission of six new States has added seven members to the total. Under the recent apportionment the total number of members is 393, which is an increase of 24. This makes the House a somewhat unwieldy body, and as there is usually so much red tape and unnecessary forms and ceremony connected with the business of Congress, a vast amount of time is consumed that could be more profitably employed. One of the evils that seems to be unavoidable is the time wasted in complimenting departed statesmen and other public functionaries by adjourning as a tribute of respect when the death of any one is announced either in the Senate or House. If a member of the cabinet, a general of the army, a commodore or admiral in the navy, a member of the Senate or House, a governor of a State, or some one who has been conspicuous in any department of life, "stimulus" of this mortal coil, some patriotic and effusive member rises in his place and moves an adjournment as a testimonial of respect for the departed. This may be all very well in its way, but the average American citizen will be apt to consider it a waste of much valuable time, if not restricted within the bounds of propriety. There are too many distinguished men passing off the stage of action to indulge in stopping the wheels of government every time a death occurs. A truly great man, who is revered by the whole people and who has done something for his country worthy of remembrance, is assuredly entitled to this honor, but the average political blunderer whose performance have amounted to no more than a "tempest in a teapot" might with eminent propriety be consigned to his last resting place without interfering with the public business for the performance of which the people pay their servants. If there should not be a stop put to this custom of paying tributes of respect to the departed, it will not be long until an adjournment will be asked on account of the death of a relative or the dog of a senator, representative or some official connected with the powers that be. At the close of the present Congress, at least an entire week has been consumed in adjournments of respect when an immense amount of public and private business has demanded the attention of that body. Respect to the dead is at all times commendable, and regard for the living is equally deserving of consideration. "So mote it be."

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

—The effort to have the magistrates act as assessors was defeated.

—By a decisive vote the proposition to create the office of county treasurer was defeated.

—The proposition to place all officials in counties of 75,000 population on salaries was adopted.

—Judge Beckner offered a resolution to apply the $600,000 direct tax fund to the common schools.

—The con. con., in appreciation of the many courtesies shown them by the Frankfort people, gave them a ball and reception, which was quite a nice affair.

—The convention has adopted a section which provides that neither a sheriff nor his deputy shall be eligible to the succeeding term, nor the former serve as deputy.

On motion of Delegate Miller, of Lincoln, the committee on style has been put to work getting things in shape, says the INTERIOR JOURNAL. But would it be better if there was a committee on shape to get things up in some sort of style the people could approve?—Covington Commonwealth.

HUSTONVILLE.

—Mr. Griggs, foreman of the Hustonville Roller Mill, has invented and put in operation a meal-belt, which takes the cake for simplicity, cheapness and efficiency. Mechanists will challenge the declaration that the entire cost is not more than that of the belting for the popular belts in use. A caveat has been filed and Mr. Griggs will soon be on "Change, having applied for Old Hutch's membership.

—We are glad to report that Jess Austin is none the worse for what came near proving a serious accident in one of his late antepardial constitutional on an imperfectly trained cycle. None of your safeties for Jess. The outlook is not comprehensive enough. On his lofty perch he was swiftly climbing the steep grade in town when his atnd took a shy, side-tracked Jess in a well washed-out drain ditch and then piled in on the reckless equestrian, not only crippling but pinning the rider almost inextricably. A heartless, jeering crowd stood aloof till Jess scrambled out and limped off leading his horse.

—The belled buzzard paid us a call last week, apparently by special invitation, it is supposed, at a mutton banquet, as he evidently belongs to a one-day troupe. In his graceful gyrations and preening he frequently sounded the bell, which one of the boys thinks is a small bell with handle, whilst the other recognize it in its tones the typical sheep bell. The younger boy was so near the bird that he mistook the cord for a bell handle, the elder declares. There is no Mulhattan flavor attached to the story and as it has been lately demonstrated in solution of Red John's Biblical problem that the INTERIOR JOURNAL has the largest paying circulation of any first-class paper in Kentucky, we hope to hear from the owner of that buzzard, who belled and turned him on the range.

—The antlers of the monarch white-tail buck of the Cumberland range have been added to Dr. Brown's collection of trophies. The doctor had the good luck to drop the monster in his tracks, near Stensenville, Wayne county, Ky., last November, and Uncle Joe Taylor, of that neighborhood, almost a nonagenarian native to those mountains, the notches on whose gun stock show more deer to his credit than any man alive, was beside our hero when he "fired the fatal shot," and as soon as the old deerslayer regained his speech he was emphatic in the declaration that the doctor had killed the biggest buck that he ever saw or heard of. When the drivers rushed to the stand, convinced that the game had been bagged, they were frightened into a paleness which could be felt by finding the veterans "trembling like aspen," utterly speechless, and unable to make an intelligible sign. Apprehensive that something awful had happened, some of the boys rushed off for water, whilst others cast about for remedies near at hand, and one of the party chanced to thrust a vial of Jack Maren's best extract under Uncle Joe's nose instead of the harts horn he intended, which produced a paroxysm of short gasps and rapid recovery from what the youngsters were rejoiced to discover was the worst case of old-fashioned buck ague that ever attacked even a tenderfoot. Residents within a radius of three miles, who have never heard a satisfactory explanation of the prolonged howling, which alarmed them on that eventful day are informed that it was an exultant outburst following the discovery of the fallacy that "buck ague like whooping cough never attacks twice."

Roll of Honor.

CRAB ORCHARD, Feb. 27.—Following is the list of pupils of Crab Orchard school whose deportment is 90 per cent. or over: Minnie Munday 94, Annie Sigler 100, Ada Gove 100, Bettie Edmiston 90, Nannie Edmiston 100, Belle Sigler 100, Bessie Carson 100, Beniah Carson 100, Susie Dillion 98, Alice Moore 95, Eva Steger 94, Mamie DeBorde 100, Eva Bailey 100, Mattie Beazley 99, Lizzie Benzley 100, Bessie Magee 100, Susie Saunders 90, Carpenter Stuart 91, Willie White 100, David Holman 98, George Bronaugh 99, James Sigler 93, Henly Bastin 95, Phil Pettus 100, Albert Newland 100, Pennington Moore 100, John DeBorde 97, John Chadwick 90, Henry DeBorde 98, Holdam Stuart 100, James Watson 100, Jacob Elder 100, Walter Saunders 91, J. W. Acton 100, V. E. Caldwell 100, Wade Perkins 90, Mary Wilson 100, Maurice Perkins 95.

This is for the month ending Feb. 27. It is hoped that parents will insist on their children having a high per cent on deportment. J. W. SMITH, Prin.

—The gold product of the country for 1890 was $32,845,000, the silver product $57,225,000.

—George Gordon, who killed John Brooks at Parkville in 1884, was acquitted at Danville. The trouble grew out of Gordon's interference with Brooks' wife. Gordon and his father, and John and James Brooks, met at Parkville and a general fight followed, in which Gordon was shot twice before killing Brooks.

Choice Blue-Grass Farm

FOR SALE.

I will sell privately, at a bargain, my farm at Crab Orchard, Lincoln county, Ky. Guest home-stand, contains

280 Acres Excellent Land,
In prime condition, and well improved, lying partly in the limits of the town of Crab Orchard, on the L. & N. R. R.

The farm is divided nearly equally by the pike leading South from town, there being 125 acres on the East side on which is the main house, a large, roomy and well-built brick of 7 rooms, besides kitchen, servants' house, stable, &c., and on the West side 150 acres, which has also a comfortable frame residence, out-houses, &c.

I will sell the place as a whole, or if desired will sell either of the tracts singly. Either will make an elegant and comfortable home, convenient to schools, churches, good turpines and the R. R. I have a person desirous of inspecting the place will be shown over it by James Hays, now residing on the premises. For terms apply or address me at Danville, Ky. JAS. W. GUEST.

Farm For Sale.

I desire to sell my farm of about 130 acres, situated about 1/4 mile north of Stanford on the Rush Branch pike, opposite the old church. There are about 50 acres in wheat and rye; the balance of the farm well set in timothy. Good dwelling of four rooms and kitchen and a splendid new barn; is well watered and fenced. Possession can be given immediately. For particulars, see J. P. Bailey, Stanford, or write the undersigned at Cincinnati, Ohio. E. WITHERS.

PERSONAL POINTS.

Mr. John L. Elkin has gone to Knoxville City on business.

George E. Stork, Esq., of Liberty, is here on legal business.

Miss Emma Harris has returned to resume her school in Jessamine.

Miss Annie Whay has gone to Louisville to lay in her spring millinery.

Miss S. C. Truher, of Millersburg, was the guest of her brother, S. S. Myers.

Little Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Elkin, is very low with pneumonia.

Mr. W. S. Warren is building him a house on his sister's lot in the Dooleyville suburb.

Miss J. H. Yager and Mr. Will Yager, of Louisville, are guests of Mrs. A. W. Carpenter.

Miss Minnie Cecil was the guest of Miss May Helm on her return to Lebanon from Garrard.

Miss Martha Paxton returned yesterday from a lengthy visit to Mrs. A. S. Moffet, at Midway.

Miss L. D. Walton and son, John, of Monticello, are the guests of her brother, Mr. John P. Davis.

Miss Annie Huber, of the College, went with her father, Mr. E. H. Hurst, of Barlowville, to Louisville, Sunday.

Miss Porter Sandrick and Miss Lucy Bentley have returned home after a week's visit to Misses Lizzie and Mamie Bentley.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Metcalf leave this week for Lexington, where they will make their future home.—Jessamine Journal.

Miss Emma Warren has become "society" in the store of Severance & Son and will no doubt prove quite an acquisition to it.

Ed C. Horner, formerly of Lancaster, but at present secretary of the Latonia race course, is said to be a candidate for Secretary of State.

Dr. Skeels Bailey was called to Mt. Vernon again Sunday to see Mr. J. W. Brown's little son, Conn., who does not improve very much.

Mr. E. C. Walton finds time in the general round of enjoyment that a visit to his old home brings to send us another readable letter for this issue.

Mr. Jacob Ottensmeyer, of New York, whom all our people appreciate for the good work he has done for the county, arrived Sunday to look after his interests here.

Will Shanks has reached the point which comes in the life of every young man—when he thinks he can write poetry. See his maiden effort in this paper and do not be too hard on him.

John S. Owsley, Jr., Esq., was dispatched to Frankfort Sunday by Judge Vernon to find the law granting the county court the right to increase the levy beyond 10 cts. for county purposes.

A letter from Rev. H. M. Lantry, formerly of Danville, informs us that he is living for a while at Gordonsville, Va., and that he has "caught on" beautifully to the boom that seems to affect that whole section.

Col. and Mrs. John S. May, of Somerset, arrived Sunday on a visit to Mr. Fielding Thurmond. The colonel left next day to attend to his duties in the constitutional convention, but Mrs. M. will remain some time.

Mr. Robert Fenzel has received a letter from Giles Bros. & Co., Chief of the Watch Inspection Department of the L. & N., saying that his work gave satisfaction and that the change was made for other reasons than any fault with him.

Capt. W. J. Warr, who has been road master on the main line of the K. C., has been appointed general road master of that road, including all its branches. The captain's friends here are proud of his promotion, which they are satisfied is deserved.

Mr. John S. Wells, the steady and popular, young pharmacist at W. B. McRoberts, left yesterday via Louisville to visit his mother at Tampa, Fla., to whom he is greatly devoted and which is convincing proof that he is an excellent young man.

George B. Wearne went down to Harrodsburg to see if some missing record books, a hundred years or more old, were in the clerk's office there, but he did not find them. Some heirs are trying to prove their claim to the land on which Middlesboro now stands.

A letter from Mr. T. R. Walton informs us that he has gone into business at Atlanta, Ga., having purchased a paying grocery store on a busy thoroughfare. Since he couldn't find an opening here, we are glad to know he has apparently found a good thing comparatively near to us.

Charles Green suffered a stroke of paralysis a few days ago, which affected his whole side, but he is gradually gaining the use of his limbs. His relatives tell us that they have no doubt that the excessive use of cigarettes, of which they were not aware, has had considerable to do with his condition.

Dr. and Mrs. R. R. Hourigan, of Marion, are up on a visit to the family of H. C. Ruple.

An other hide 5 feet long is among Frank Ront's collection of pelts. The animal was caught on Mr. Bailey Hill's place and was one of the largest and prettiest ever seen in this section.

The Rockcastle people seem to have done a little "resolving" themselves from which it appears that they are no more anxious to keep company with the cartridgers than the latter are with them.

The Advocate says that Jasper Blackberry was given two years by the Boyle circuit court for maliciously shooting and wounding Macajah Rawsey. Dave Brumfield, a negro hog thief, got the same term.

Doodle Killing.—At Gray's, a mining town in Knox county, Abner Mitchell cut John Woods to death and was himself shot and killed by John Luge, a friend of Woods. They were natives and a bad set generally.

The Sturtevant Bros. and others propose to put up water works at Danville, if the city will take 65 fire plugs at $65. The Advocate thinks, however, that this is too steep and is rather of the opinion that the proposition will not be accepted unless considerably modified.

The Water Works Co. has found that there are two other springs that can be used, outside of the Welsh spring, from which an ample supply of water can be obtained at about the same cost and the advisability of using the Tate spring is being considered. An analysis of it shows it to be unusually pure.

Mr. John R. Faris says, "talk about your puzzles, I've got one that I will give the best suit of clothes at Stagg & McRoberts to any person who will solve it. I have 21 hogs and want to kill them in 6 days, killing an odd number each day. It can be done. The first correct answer gets the suit of clothes."

Now is the time to strike for electric lights. The Water Works Co. has reserved the right to put in a plant, if deemed advisable, and a contract can be made with it now, before it gets its engine, at a more satisfactory rate than later. There are 30-odd gasoline street lamps, which cost over $500 a year. They burn less than half the night and give a very unsatisfactory light besides. Ten electric lights would give about 10 times as much light and would cost no more. Would it not be well for the city council to consider the question and see if it can not make arrangements by which the money spent for lights could be more satisfactorily expended?

A dispatch from Dallas, Texas, says that Wm. Clark Cash was to have applied for bail yesterday under a writ of habeas corpus. He says he can give bail for any reasonable amount. The dispatch further says that the publication of Cash's rather unsavory record in Kentucky and the part his wife played in the suits for damages instituted by her husband against prominent men at their old home in Kentucky, has had a marked effect upon the public. The day following the killing of Young public sentiment applauded the act, now the feeling against the prisoner is very bitter. Cash has retained Col. Russell, one of the leading criminal lawyers of the State to defend him.

Henry Logan, the negro who shot Charles Greenleaf in the leg at a ball and broke the bone, had an examining trial Saturday and was held in $300 bail, which he could not make. It was proved that he said he was going to the ball, that he had a good gun as anybody and that he intended to kill two negroes, using a vulgar epithet at the same time. By the time he got to the ball he had been informed that his girl had been ejected for misbehavior and when he went in he raised a row with Jim Middleton. Shortly afterwards he pulled out his pistol and began to shoot with the result as above stated. He claims that he had no intention of shooting Greenleaf, but his reckless use of a pistol in a crowded room shows he was not particular who caught a ball.

Ladies' underwear at prices that will pay you to examine. Severance & Son.

Go and examine the line of clothing for men, boys and children, just received. Joe S. Jones.

You can get 4 cents per pound for your live geese feathers, opposite Portman House. Joe S. Jones.

Col. John S. May says it seems to be settled that the C. S. Shops are to be removed from Somerset to Burgin and the people are almost panic stricken. Already subscriptions to the amount of $50,000 have been raised to induce the company to let them remain.

The jailer of Bell, J. M. Johnson, and Deputy Sheriff Robert Slusher delivered Eh Gooden, who murdered Marshal Covert, and James Howard, who slew a woman, to the jailer here yesterday. Both were sent up for life, when no doubt they should have been hung, and both have taken appeals. Mr. Johnson says 10 of the jury were for hanging Gooden and 11 for hanging Howard.

Wisner went out like a roaring lion indeed and spring was ushered in in a like stormy manner. Saturday it snowed, blizzards and roared and Sunday was a most disagreeable day with the mercury down to 20°. Gen. Greeley had prophesied 10°, but fortunately it didn't get that low. The farmers are alarmed about their wheat and fruit and already an ominous shake of the head shows that they have something sure enough to grumble about now. To-day rain and warmer weather is predicted.

The regular court of levy convened yesterday, but had not reached the point of making the levy last evening. It is claimed that the court has no authority to levy a 20-cent tax and the return of Mr. Owsley, who went to Frankfort to find if there is, was awaited till to-day. Orders were made continuing those who were receiving assistance from the county on the last till the October term and allowing interest to the Stanford and Otterbein and Highland & Waynesburg companies on the notes they gave. The delinquent list was received from Sheriff F. D. Newland and read, but the number allowed had not been settled. The following justices were present: Hugh Sargeant, M. S. Bastin, Geo. W. Young, Charles Boone, J. E. Lynn, George W. Carson, J. A. Chappell, L. B. Adams, G. D. Smiley and John M. Hall.

The meeting of the Teachers' Association at the Baptist church Friday night was well attended by all, save those especially expected. A very small number of teachers was present, but what they lacked in quantity we suppose they made up in quality. The exercises began by some sweet music by the church choir, led by Mr. Joe F. Waters on the organ, after which Rev. John Bell Gilson led in prayer. Supt. W. F. McClary gave an interesting and earnest talk on the Needs of Our Schools, from which we gathered that it would be easier to enumerate what they do not need than what they do. Among other things he advocated a graded school in Stanford, which Prof. J. W. Smith predicted would be in operation before ten years have gone. Prof. Ruple, of Boyle, Mr. Goodknight and others also discussed the question. Miss Alice Stuart read a carefully prepared paper on "Whither are we drifting," and the subject was further discussed by Prof. Smith, Goodknight, and Grinstead, of Boyle, all of whom thought that the educational interest was not drifting, but climbing and growing rapidly and gratifyingly. As usual, Miss Cettie Thurmond had something interesting to say and said it well. Prof. G. U. Fry expatiated on the Mistakes in Teaching in a way which showed he had been a keen observer. R. Lee Davis was not present and Prof. Fry was called into service again to affirm that Nature has more to do with the formation of character than education, and acquitted himself well. Prof. Smith argued for the negative of the question and the discussion grew quite lively, till Prof. Chappell got up and said they were all talking to hear themselves talk, without knowing what they were talking about. Prof. Smith floored him with a broadside and the meeting adjourned in general good humor. It is a pity that more of the teachers do not take interest in the association. They would certainly be benefited and the benefit would be felt in the school-rooms.

Our readers are still at work on the Bright puzzle, which has created a great deal of interest. Many who are not in the habit of consulting the Bible have brushed the dust and cobwebs from it and tried their hand at a solution, with more or less success. The following have sent answers since our last:

W. Sprague, Powers Store.

Mrs. J. W. Bastin, Pittsburg.

J. A. Fowler, Liberty.

Miss Eva Turnball, Ottenheim.

E. Price, Liberty.

P. P. Nunnally, Stanford.

A. T. Nunnally, Stanford.

Miss Edie Warren, Stanford.

Mrs. M. N. DePauw, Shelby City.

Mrs. J. C. Davis, Medicine Lodge, Kas.

Rev. A. J. Pike, Level Green.

Mason H. Pollard, Marksburg.

Burch Buchanan, Crab Orchard.

Andrew Buchanan, Crab Orchard.

The legislature was given the power to consolidate the offices of sheriff and jailer whenever and wherever it is deemed expedient.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Miss Jennie M. Harlan, of Boyle, and Mr. C. D. Anderson, of Pittsburg, were married at the residence of James L. Harlan, Saturday, by Rev. E. M. Green. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will make their home at Pittsburg.

—We acknowledge receipt of invitation to the marriage of Middlesboro's excellent chief of police, Capt. V. M. Hill, to Miss Grace Gordon, which will occur at Verona, Mo., on the 25th, and here's hoping him and his good luck and happiness.

—Senator Manderson, of Nebraska, was chosen president pro tempore in the place of Ingalls.

—The N. N. & M. V. has decided to build its shops at Lexington, where it will employ 200 men.

—Figures show that in 10 years 13,315 miners have lost their lives while burrowing in the bowels of the earth.

—Eighteen blocks, including the Baptist church and many residences, were burned at Heruman, N. Y., Saturday night.

—The 51st Congress will spend $200,000,000 more of the people's money than any of its predecessors, and create untold millions of dollars of deficiencies, to be provided for by its successors.

—The shipping subsidy raid was downed Friday by a vote of 143 to 142 to recommit, but the postal subsidy bill fared better, being passed by 142 to 120. The latter authorizes the postmaster general to enter into contract with American citizens for carrying mails on American steamships between United States ports and foreign ports, Canada excepted, the mail service to be distributed among Atlantic, Mexican, Pacific and Gulf ports.

Articles of Association

STANFORD WATER WORKS COMPANY.

We, the undersigned, J. F. Peyton, John S. Hughes, Masterman Peyton Charles E. Sturtevant and George W. Sturtevant, Jr., do associate ourselves together and become an incorporated company under the provisions of Chapter 56, General Statutes of Kentucky.

1. The name of the corporation shall be the Stanford Water Works Company and its general place of transacting business shall be in the city of Stanford, Lincoln county, Kentucky.

2. The general nature of the business of the corporation shall be the construction and maintenance of a system of water works for the supply of water for pay to the city of Stanford and the inhabitants thereof and to the town of Kowland and the inhabitants thereof.

3. The manufacture and sale of artificial lights in the city of Stanford and in the town of Kowland, and to charge and receive pay for such lights.

4. The acquisition of all such real and personal estate as may be required for conducting the corporation above specified.

5. The capital stock of the association shall be seventy-five thousand ($75,000) dollars, to be divided into shares of one thousand dollars each, and which shall be paid to the Treasurer of the Company at such times and in such proportions as shall be required by the Board of Directors of the Company.

6. The corporation shall commence on the 25th day of February 1891, and terminate at the end of fifty (50) years from that date.

7. The affairs of the Company shall be conducted by a Board of five Directors, one of whom shall be elected President. The Board of Directors shall be elected annually by the shareholders on the first Saturday of August of each year. But until the first election, the incorporators herein named shall constitute the Directors of the Company.

8. The highest amount of indebtedness or liability to which the corporation can at any time subject itself shall not exceed fifty thousand ($50,000) dollars.

9. The private property of incorporators and shareholders is to be exempt from corporate debts. Witness our hands and seals this 14th day of February, 1891.
